MUTUAL LIFE-INSURANCE COMPANY.

By paying a small extra premium in addition to each regular premium, any one taking out a SEMI-TONTINE POLICY in the NOETHWESTERN MUTUAL LIFE-INSURANCE COMPANY can accure, in case of death within the toutine dividend period, the return of all the premiums paid up to the time of death, in addition to the amount regularly insured under the policy. The extra premium is less than that of other companies issuing this class of policles, and ceases to be payable at the close of the tontine dividend period, and any one may stop paying it at any time without affecting his original policy contract.

The arrangement above described is in tended to meet the objection sometimes urged to the semi-tontine system-that no dividend is paid in case of death within the tontine period. It provides what is equivalent to a MOR-TUARY DIVIDEND OF 100 PER CENT OF ALL THE PREMIUMS PAID. It will afford us pleasure to furnish any one, personally or by letter, with a full explanation of this most desirable and popuar form of life insurance.
